

Respected all

The Vice-Chancellor convened a meeting today over some incident entailing security issues and raised his deep concerns over attempts of hooliganism by some in the name of Holi celebrations that is way beyond 5 days from today. He has desired to issue his instructions to all the respected functionaries of this university to not to let anybody engage in such beforetime coloring attempts or any such happening that is not at all conducive to the academic environment prevalent in the university. He has issued categorical directions that nobody will be allowed to vitiate the cordial and amicable environment in the university and has desired that all the heads and other responsible faculty members must contain any such incident that is undesirable. They may also pass such instructions to their students to maintain discipline and engage them in classes and other academic activities. They may also feel free to seek assistance of security staff deployed around their buildings or demand additional security deployment from the Controller Security for containing any untoward situation.

Yours sincerely

Rajiv Sharma
