from schools. Parents, as a result, are a harried lot. "My two daughters in classes 2 and 6 are back to the offline mode of education after almost two years. The session began more than a week ago, but my daughters do not have textbooks yet. I visited nearly all the stores in the city and even went to Noida, but to no avail," said Mukesh Kumar, a resident of Sector 43.

As queues outside bookstores in Sadar Bazar are growing longer, dealers are giving customers an expected waiting period. The shortage, they said, is mostly for textbooks of classes 1 to 8. "There had been a shortage of textbooks for three months, but now it has become a supply gap. Any school that has a large stock of books can manage to supply the students or for a few days, but after that, they will have to start getting books from publishers. The shortage is not only in textbooks but also in other school supplies like notebooks, pens, and pencils. Parents are also facing a shortage of school uniforms. The situation is expected to worsen as the school session progresses.

Publishers say they will start getting books from publishers in the next few months. The shortage is not only in textbooks but also in other school supplies like notebooks, pens, and pencils. Parents are also facing a shortage of school uniforms. The situation is expected to worsen as the school session progresses.

Besides the shortage of textbooks, there is also a shortage of school uniforms. The situation is expected to worsen as the school session progresses.

While schools are struggling to supply textbooks, they are also facing a shortage of school uniforms. The situation is expected to worsen as the school session progresses.

For a dozen injured Two fires in Delhi

NEWS NETWORK

More than a dozen people, including six firemen, were injured in two fires in north Delhi on Saturday. The fires broke out in an industrial area and a residential area.

The first fire broke out in an industrial area in north Delhi on Saturday. The fire department received the call at 4.40am about an electrical goods store. A fire-fighting unit in the area was dispatched and sent 10 firemen to the scene. Nine people, six of whom were firemen, were injured in the fire. While the fire was under control after a couple of hours, it had caused damage worth several lakhs. The fire department is currently investigating the cause of the fire. The second fire broke out in a residential area in north Delhi on Saturday. The fire department received the call at 8.30am about a fire in a shop. A fire-fighting unit in the area was dispatched and sent 10 firemen to the scene. Five people, two of whom were firemen, were injured in the fire. While the fire was under control after a couple of hours, it had caused damage worth several lakhs. The fire department is currently investigating the cause of the fire.

However, a few schools claimed that they are not facing a crisis because they pre-ordered textbooks in October last year.

"We have managed to stay out of this crisis. We pre-ordered the books in October last year. It is the practice we have been sticking to for decades," said DPS (Sector 45) principal Aditi Mishra.

said Shweta Chauhan, DCP (Central). Delhi Fire Service director Atul Garg, however, said that the blast seemed to be of LPG cylinders stored on the first floor.

He named the six injured firemen as Ajmer, Samunder, Ankit, Vikas, Rinku Yadav and Rakesh. Apart from these six, one policeman and two others also sustained injuries. The fire was doused around 8.30am.

In the second incident, five people received minor injuries at Azad Market in north Delhi on Saturday. According to the local residents,
