Why rule change in BBMB has become a flashpoint between Centre and Punjab

POLITICAL PARTIES IN Punjab, barring the BJP, are up in arms over the Centre's decision to amend the rules regarding appointments to two key positions on the Bhakra Beas Management Board (BBMB). MAN AMAN Singh Chhina explains the history of the BBMB, the changes that have been made and the apprehensions of the political parties and farmers of the state

How did BBMB come to set up?
The genesis of BBMB lies in the Indus Water Treaty signed between India and Pakistan in 1960 whereby waters of three eastern rivers—Ravi, Beas and Sutlej—were allotted to India for exclusive use while Indus, Chenab and Jhelum rivers were allocated to Pakistan.

In India, a master plan was drawn to harness the potential of the rivers. The plan proposed assured irrigation, power generation and flood control. Bhakra and Beas projects form a major part of this plan and have been a high priority joint venture of the then undivided Punjab and Rajasthan.

Following the reorganisation of Punjab on November 1, 1956, and the creation of the state of Haryana, the Bhakra Beas Management Board was constituted under Section 79 of the Punjab Reorganisation Act, 1956. The administration, maintenance and operation of Bhakra Nangal project was handed over to Bhakra Management on October 1, 1957. On May 15, 1976, when the Beas Project works were completed and handed over, the Bhakra Management Board was renamed as Bhakra Beas Management Board (BBMB). Since then, BBMB regulates supply of water and power to Punjab, Haryana, Rajasthan, Himachal Pradesh, Delhi and Chandigarh.

What is the constitution of the BBMB management?
The BBMB management includes a chairman and two whole time members who are from the partner states of Punjab and Haryana. They are designated as Member (Power) and Member (Irrigation) from Punjab and Haryana respectively. There is representation from each member state including Rajasthan and Himachal Pradesh as nominated by the respective state governments. The BBMB has a strength of about 12,000 employees and out of these 696 are Group A officers and are posted from the partner states.

What changes have been made to the BBMB rules?
The Government of India issued an amendment on February 23, 2022 to amend the BBMB Rules 1974, thereby changing the criteria for the selection of whole-time members of the Board. New rules specify technical qualifications for the appointments and pave the way for appointment of the members from across India and not only Punjab and Haryana.

What has been the objection to the new rules?

The opposition to the new rules has come from within the engineers' fraternity, farmers as well as the political parties of Punjab. While the Congress, AAP and SAD have labelled this as an attack on the federal structure of the country, the farmer unions have promised protest if the changes are not rolled back. The engineers have pointed out that hardly any engineer would qualify for appointment as per the new specifications, which appear to tailor-made for some persons to be appointed from outside Punjab and Haryana.

Senior Congress leader Sunil Jakkhar has urged Chief Minister Charanjit Singh Channi to lead a delegation to Prime Minister Narendra Modi to oppose the new rules while AAP and SAD have said the Centre and BJP should refrain from changing rules arbitrarily.

What has been the official response to these protests?

BBMB officials have clarified that the representation of Punjab and Haryana as well as other member states will continue as before. They have stated that the new rules only spell out the technical qualifications required for the Member (Power) and Member (Irrigation) and that the power and irrigation benefits to member states remain the same. It has also been argued that the changes have been made in pursuance to a judgement of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in the case of Jaganmoh Singh Vs Union of India.

The BJP has also chided the other parties for raising "frivolous objections" and said that there is no material change in the rules and in the share of member states in power and irrigation projects.

How have the Punjab political parties responded to this explanation?

The parties continue to maintain that the rules have been changed to drastically reduce chances of the officials from Punjab and Haryana who could be appointed to the two posts. They continue to state that these changes affect the prospects of Punjab as part of BBMB and that this is a conspiracy to divide the state from the Board. They have also pointed out that in 2018, a chairperson from Himachal Pradesh was appointed despite the fact that in the past, the person on the post has always been from outside the member states in order to maintain neutrality of the Board. Now, various farmers groups have announced that they will hold a protest on March 20th to issue the Sanyukt Samaj Morcha has said that the BBMB should specify that the position of the member from Punjab will be permanent else an agitation may be launched against it.

Delhi govt nod to withdraw R-Day violence, 16 other cases filed against farm protesters

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE NEW DELHI, MARCH 1

THE DELHI government has given its approval to withdraw 17 cases lodged against farmers during their protest in the capital as well as its borders, senior official said Tuesday. The files have now been sent to the L-G for final approval. Approval to withdraw the case, filed after violence at Red Fort on Republic Day last year, has also been given.

During the farmer protests, hundreds of protesters had deviated from the route set by the leaders and Delhi Police collectively for a Republic Day march. Some of them had reached the Red Fort, where ticket counters, door frame metal detectors and baggage scanners at the monument were damaged.

According to the official, the file was sent by the L-G office to Delhi Home Minister Satyendar Jain on January 31.

"The file was approved by Jain and sent to the CM's office on February 25. The CMO sent the file to the L-G office on February 28 and the L-G approved it on the same day," the official said.

The Delhi Police had stated last week that they had approached the L-G office regarding the cases.

Addressing the Delhi Police's annual press briefing at the police headquarters, Delhi Police Commissioner Rakesh Asthana had said 54 cases were registered by the Delhi Police, and they had filed charge sheets in five. Another five cases were marked as 'untraceable', while 44 cases were under investigation. "We have also written to the L-G's office, requesting them to withdraw 17 cases," he had said.

Officials said that most of the cases that are being withdrawn were registered for violating Covid norms.

Once the three farm laws were withdrawn last year, the Centre also agreed to the demand of withdrawing the cases.

Sources in the L-G office, however, questioned why the Delhi government had taken a month to approve the withdrawal of cases. "The Delhi Police sent the file to the L-G House on January 29. The L-G House sent it to the Home Department January 31. For one month, the file remained pending with the Delhi Government. Also when it came back to the L-G on February 28, it was approved," the officials said.

The farmer leaders, meanwhile, welcomed the Delhi government's move and urged the Centre to fulfil its other promises too, including the formation of a committee on MSP. They said the Sanyukt Kisan Morcha (SKM) will hold a meeting in Delhi on March 14 to decide the future course of action if the remaining promises made to the farmers by the Centre are not met.

Farmer leader and SKM core committee member Shiv Kumar Kaika hailed the Delhi government and the L-G for withdrawing the cases. This move has given us hope that other promises such as formation of a committee on MSP will also be met," Kaika told PTI.

He demanded that the Centre should also issue instructions to other state governments such as Madhya Pradesh to withdraw cases lodged against farmers during the movement.

"We are awaiting foreletions to get over, and then on March 14, the SKM will hold a meeting to pressure the central government to fulfil other promises as well. Future course of the action will also be decided in the meeting," Kaika added.

Another farmer leader and SKM member Abhinav Kohar said withdrawing cases lodged against farmers was a welcome step. "Though it came a little late but it is a commendable move. This will help in bridging the trust deficit between the government and the farmers," Kohar said.

He said the Centre should also make efforts to consider other demands of the farmers which include illegal guarantee on MSP land for a memorial for farmers and expansion of Union Minister Ajay Mishra Teni from the Cabinet.

STRUGGLE TO RECOVER COST DESPITE GOOD MARKET RATES

Low potato yield prevents farmers from harvesting profits

ANJU AGNIHOTRI CHABHA JAALANDHAR, MARCH 1

EVEN AS harvesting of potato picks up and good rates being offered in the market, the Punjab farmer is still an unhappy lot due to low production this year due to January rains.

The rates have increased from Rs 1,000 to Rs 1,200 per quintal for seed potato last week to Rs 1,700-1,800 to Rs 2,000 per quintal. The rate of table potato is now Rs 900 to Rs 1,000 per quintal, which was Rs 700 to Rs 800 a few days back.

Farmers are happy about the increase in prices in the market, but also point out that the decreased production means they cannot make the most of it.

quite popular. Farmer Harjinder Singh from Shahkot, who does potato farming in 100 acres of land, said that his production is down from 100 to 125 quintals per acre to 60 quintals per acre.

He explained that heavy rain in the month of January, when potato crop was just two months old, had damaged it badly.

"I along with my brother remained in the field during the rain as we drained out the water with the help of a machine because otherwise we could save 50 to 60% of our crop," he said, adding that those who could not do so their yield was down to just 35 to 40 quintals per acre.

"No doubt the rates have improved in the past one week and they are even better than the last year when we were selling at the rate of Rs 1,200-1,300 per quintal but heavy loss in production would not help us meet our expenses," he explained. In the month of January, Punjab had received 160.4% surplus rain in the first 10 days of the month. The potato belt of the state, which includes Jalandhar, Kapurthala, Hoshiarpur and Nawanshahr, had also received excess rainfall in this period. Kapurthala alone had received 5.963% surplus rain, while remaining three districts of the potato belt had received 110 to 170% surplus rain in the same period.

The rate of table potato is now Rs 900 to Rs 1,000 per quintal.

Another farmer from Malian area in Jalandhar, Jaiinder Singh, said that due to excessive rain was not possible to drain all the excess water from the fields. He added that the fields where water remained stagnant for 4-5 days, the crop production reduced to 50%. But the rates are good this time, he said.

Another farmer Balraj Singh from Lambra area said that even table potato was being sold at Rs 900 to Rs 1,000 per quintal this time, which is good rate and farmer may recover their losses due to damaged crop.

In Punjab, harvesting of the table potato starts in December and continues till March. Seed potato, which is around 60% of the total crop of the state, is harvested in February-March.

Although Punjab's potato production share is just 5% of the all India production, which is nearly 50 million tonnes, the state has been meeting the demand for seed potato of the entire country as its Doaba region—Jalandhar, Kapurthala, Hoshiarpur and Nawanshahr districts—are the best region in the country to grow seed potato. The seed potato from this belt goes to all potato-growing states of the country which include Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, Gujarat, Maharashtra and Madhya Pradesh.

The states which procure seed from Punjab they replace the old seed with a new one every three years because of its higher cost. In the interim, they use potatoes grown using Punjab seed potato to keep cost in check, but due to this the yield falls around 15-30%.

In Punjab, where the seed is grown, the farmers replace seed every year and full tuber issued as seed together with the best quality seed which is to be supplied to other states.

With letters to DCs, AAP to step up stir over BBMB row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE CHANDIGARH, MARCH 1

THE ROW over the changes in rules for appointment of Bhakra Beas Management Board's (BBMB) members refuses to die down with AAP Tuesday announcing that it will give memorandums to Deputy Commissioners of various districts against the Centre's decision. The SAD too Tuesday called the Centre's move an attempt to "diminish" state's rights.

AAP, meanwhile, said that the letters to DCs will be meant to be sent to the Governor. Leader of Opposition Harpal Singh Cheema said that AAP through its memorandum will urge the Governor to take up the matter with the Prime Minister to uphold the rights of state.

In a statement issued from the party headquarters on Tuesday, Cheema alleged that notices were being handed to oust Punjab from BBMB.

The importance of Punjab is being diminished from the management of the board," he said, adding that first Congress government at Centre was committing such atrocities against Punjab and now BJP was following in their steps.

Cheema said that for delimiting states of Punjab in BBMB, not only Centre's Congress and BJP governments are responsible, but Punjab's Captain and Badal governments are equally responsible.

Akali Dal chief Sukhbir Badal also took an exception to the Centre's recent decision of making changes in the rules for selection BBMB members. "The SAD has always supported federal structure but slowly the rights of the states are diminishing," he said. (WITHPTI/PUNTS)
