Revamped Central Vista 20-MONTH WAIT NEARLY OVER

Dipak.Dash@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: Prime Minister Narendra Modi is likely to unveil the statue of Netaji Subhas Chandra Bose at India Gate next Thursday and he would also inaugurate the revamped Central Vista Avenue or Rajpath for public use. With this the largest and most popular public space in the national capital will be re-opened for the public after a gap of almost 20 months.

ALMOST THERE: Finishing touches are being given to the Central Vista Avenue.

TOI has learnt that Thursday's event would be held after sunset near India Gate in the capital. All the street lights installed along Rajpath and the lawns have sensors and these automatically get switched on when the natural light falls below a fixed threshold.

As a part of the programme, the 28 ft statue of Netaji made from special black granite from Telangana will be unveiled beneath the canopy at India Gate, which once featured a statue of British monarch King George V. That statue was removed and shifted in 1968 to Coronation Park at Burari in Delhi. Modi had unveiled the hologram statue of Netaji at the canopy on January 23.

Sources said all seating arrangements would be on the carpeted lawns so that the revamped area would also serve as a backdrop to that people at India Gate are watching the event. Sources

NGT questions officials' failure to clean Yamuna

Kushagra.Dixit@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: The National Green Tribunal has sought an explanation from the chief secretaries of Delhi, Uttar Pradesh and Haryana on the worsening condition of the Yamuna flowing through the capital. Saying that despite its earlier order, there was "utter lack of adequate action and monitoring by higher authorities", NGT asked Delhi's chief secretary to explain "why coercive and penal measures should be not taken in fixing accountability for such blatant failure to protect the water quality" of Yamuna.

The NGT bench headed by chairperson Adarsh Kumar Goel took cognisance of a TOI report published on January 17 under the headline 'Delhi: Yamuna dirtier than it was 3 months ago' detailing how the effluents, untreated sewage and under-utilised sewage treatment plants were increasing the pollution load on the river. The report pointed out that the level of faecal coliform in the water due to untreated sewage and excreta at a certain spot was 2,800 times the desired limit and 580 times beyond the maximum permissible limit.

"The present application depicts a grim situation calling for further intervention of this tribunal. The chief secretary of Delhi is required to ascertain the latest factual position and give his report by email within two months with explanation why coercive and penal measures be not taken in terms of fixing accountability for such blatant failure of the authorities in protecting the water quality of river Yamuna, which is tributary of Ganga, by preventing discharge of pollution," the NGT bench said, adding, "It may also be necessary to seek similar reports from Haryana and Uttar Pradesh. The reports of the chief secretaries may be in a consolidated manner in the light of interdepartmental review and ground realities."

The matter of pollution in the Yamuna, after being heard in the Supreme Court for 23 years since 1994, was transferred to NGT in 2017, where a similar petition filed by environmentalist Manoj Mishra was already being heard since 2012 and a judgement with a roadmap was given in 2015. Since then, NGT had given a slew of orders, despite which the pollution in the river had only become elevated.

The bench declared that it was "beyond anyone's comprehension" how the continuing loss to environment and public health could be ignored. "It is shocking to note the data relating to water quality of river Yamuna and the pollution load posted by DPCC on its website depicting these sewage drains remaining untrapped even after a year of the last order," the bench stated.

Capital to have more than 500 liquor stores

Atul.Mathur@timesgroup.com

New Delhi: As the city reverted to the old excise policy from Thursday, a senior Delhi government official said by the end of this year, the city will have 700 shops as promised by the government while announcing the shift to the old regime.

Though some customers rued the availability of fewer brands, especially the premium ones and beer, officials said more brands were being registered by the government. "We've already registered about 400 brands and more are in process. Some companies faced technical issues related to their warehouses. That's why their brands did not reach the shops. But all those problems are being ironed out," said another official.

"Almost all the popular brands will be back on the shelves as it takes time as supply follows production and dispatch after a brand is registered," the official added.

To ensure that there are no supply issues, excise department officials said there were more than 80 lakh bottles available at warehouses, which will take care of a week of the city's total demand. "All shops collectively have a stock of over 35 lakh bottles, especially those which are fast-moving. The customers will not feel a pinch," said an official.

The average daily consumption of liquor in September is estimated to be about 40 lakh bottles, officials said.

The industry players said they were hoping that the availability of brands settles down in the next few days. "On the first day of the resumption of the old excise policy, around 275 outlets restarted the alcohol business. It would take about 7-10 days for the supply to settle down in the proposed 500 outlets," said Nita Kapoor, chief executive officer, International Spirits and Wine Association of India.
