Negligence case filed in blaze at Chandni Chowk

Times News Network

New Delhi: Delhi Police on Tuesday registered a case of negligence in the fire incident reported in the Chandni Chowk area on Sunday night. The case was registered under sections 203 (negligent conduct with respect to fire or combustible matter) and 281 (act endangering life or personal safety of others) of the Kotwali police station.

Police suspect that the fire started at a shop located on the ground floor of a three-storey building because of a short circuit. However, an investigation is going on to ascertain the exact cause. DCP (north) Sugar Singh Kalsi said no one was injured in the incident.

According to the fire department, four fire tenders were deployed at the site on Tuesday evening to control small fires. "In the night, we kept one fire tender at the spot," an officer stated.

Local traders said that wind and combustible materials were regularly igniting the small fires.

Rajender Malhotra, 71, owner whose textile shop was worst affected, said a team from the Municipal Corporation of Delhi visited the site and informed them that the building's inspection would only be carried out after the fire is properly doused. "Goods, which turned into ashes, were kept at my shop for sale during the upcoming festive season," Malhotra said.
