Celebration of the 4th World Statistics Day

Theme: Quality Statistics and Data for Everyone

The Department of Statistics, Maharshi Dayanand University, Rohtak, is pleased to announce that a Project Presentation Competition on “Quality Statistics and Data for Everyone” will be organized on October 18, 2025, at 09:00 AM onwards to commemorate the 4th World Statistics Day.

This competition aims to encourage students to apply statistical and data-analytic techniques in addressing real-world social and official problems, thereby highlighting the pivotal role of data-driven insights in policy formulation, social development, and evidence-based decision-making.

The topics of the projects may include (but are not limited to):

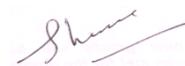

- Data analytics in governance and policymaking
- Statistical modelling for social and environmental issues
- Predictive analytics for public health or education
- Big data applications in official statistics
- AI and data visualization for decision support

Participation: Open to undergraduate, PG Diploma and postgraduate students of relevant disciplines of Statistics, Mathematics, Commerce, Economics, Management and Computer Science.

Evaluation Criteria: Originality, Relevance, Statistical Soundness and Presentation Skills.

Certificates and Awards will be given to the best presentations.

All interested participants are encouraged to register on the spot i.e. at 09:00 AM on October 18, 2025. However, they are required to submit one hard copy of the project in the Department on the same date and time.
